

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a mobile telephone apparatus, an information storing section stores information, and a control section receives a 5 remote access request signal from an external network to access the information storing section.